Poultrymen Are Advised To Purchase 'Quality'

"Good chickens can not be sold at a low price," G. S. Vickers, field manager of the Ohio poultry improvement association said in cautioning farmers to "buy on quality—not price."

Outlining a procedure to inspire wise chicken buying, Vickers said: "Investigate your local hatcheryman first. See if he has a careful and thorough pullorum disease control program. See if he obtains good breeding stocks; see if he keeps up the quality and constantly improves it by careful selection and the use of ROP pedigreed or other good breeding males from good breeders."

Farmers Continuing To Buy Machinery

Demand Backlog, Labor Costs Held as Factors

Although farm operators' net income and their purchases of agricultural machinery were both down in 1949, neither has slipped very far from their peak levels. Realized net income from agriculture in 1949 approximated 14 billion dollars, according to the latest estimate of the bureau of agricultural economics.

The bureau reported that no official figure of agricultural machinery purchases in 1949 is yet available, but informed trade and Washington sources expected the total to be down from last year by about the same percentage as farmers' net income. That would indicate a figure of about two 2.1 billion.

In the record year of 1948, purchasers reached 2.4 billion, an all-time high. If 1949 expectations materialize, farm machinery purchases would still be almost four times as large as the 1935-39 average.

Typical of the ever-increasing use of farm machinery, is this farmer operating a tractor to break ground in a matter of hours which would have previously required days.

Several factors besides high incomes have acted in recent years to help boost purchases of equipment. In some measure they were expected to add strength to the equipment market for some time.

15-Point System Aids Insomniacs To Get to Sleep

NEW YORK. — For those who have trouble getting to sleep, there is a formula on the market which is designed primarily to remedy that trouble. Although most people bother about how to stay awake, or how to wake up, once asleep, there are many thousands of humans who are tortured night after night by inability to get to sleep.

Dr. James Bender never had any trouble like that, although he did lose some hours over a book he was writing. The title of it is "How to Sleep."

Although the book touches on all phases of sleeping—from the fine art of snoring to how to get the children to bed—it is chiefly aimed at bringing comfort to the insomniacs, the people who can't go to sleep.

For those who want to try it, Dr. Bender has a 15-point program for producing sleep. Here is what he recommends:

1. Sleep in a good bed. Make sure it's big enough for you.

2. Sleep on a pillow that fits you.

3. Dress your bed right. Dr. Bender even advocates a daily change of linen for severe cases of nonsleeping.

4. Don't sleep in a room decorated in exciting colors. Pastel greens and blues are the most restful shades.

Keep Room Dark

5. Keep the room dark. If necessary, buy and wear a pair of eye-shades.

6. The bedroom should be strictly for sleeping; make it a pleasant, restful room, with things near by that induce slumber.

7. Take a bath before going to bed. A bath is more relaxing than a shower, especially if a few drops of pine needle extract are added to the tub. The temperature of the water should be between 98 and 102 degrees.

8. Be the master of noise. A pair of ear stoppers help keep the room quiet.

9. Ventilate your room to suit yourself.

10. Try melotherapy. That means music. Among the selections Dr. Bender suggests are MacDowell's "To a Water Lily" and Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun."

11. Make friends of your senses. In other words, rest them. Some ways you can do that are to brush your hair before retiring and to burn a stick of incense in the bedroom.

12. Eat a snack. But be careful. Dr. Bender advises the bedtime menu consist of a glass of skim milk and a plain cookie. If you're very tired, maybe two cookies.

Kid Self Along

13. Kid yourself along. Dickens, says Dr. Bender, couldn't sleep unless his bed pointed north. If you need a secret trick—like crawling around the bed 10 times—go to it.

14. Read yourself to sleep.

15. Make a happy event of going to bed. Look on sleep as a delightful escape from problems.

Besides the 15 points, Dr. Bender has other suggestions.

"I have almost a religious fervor in the belief that relaxation exercises are a big help," he says.

Some ways Dr. Bender advocates relaxing are by standing on your head, or yawning, or blinking. Yawning, incidentally, is good for you, and you shouldn't try to swallow your yawns.

HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCK

PREPARED BY AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH

BAD WATER BRINGS ANIMAL DISEASES

It has been known for centuries that a bad water supply may spread human diseases and deaths.

It is not so generally known that costly livestock losses can also occur where pure water is not available at all times.

Water holes can spread disease.

Old water tanks may harbor the living larvae of many varieties of parasites, or even disease-producing bacteria. Stale ponds or backwater bayous may be incubators for parasites and virulent germs.

Windblown green scum or algae on lakes can cause heavy death losses in all species of farm animals. Wells that are open to seepage from manure piles are grave sources of danger. Each year valuable animals are lost, also, after drinking from streams contaminated by industrial wastes. Rivers and creeks also may carry disease germs and losses from farms upstream. Veterinarians have traced hog cholera outbreaks to just such situations.

Strange as it may seem, actual death of animals by thirst is not too uncommon. Even a short supply of water may cause illness or poor production.

While ice cold water may not actually cause disease, it cuts down on livestock profits because animals will not drink enough.

The livestock owner should not wait until faulty water supplies cause losses. He should survey the situation on his farm and take the necessary preventive measures before losses occur.

Spring Calving Permits Cheaper Winter Feeding

Spring calving permits use of cheaper lower-grade feed during winter. A cow that calves in the spring will get along nicely on a plain kind of ration. But the cow that calves in the fall must be fed a milk-producing ration during the winter to keep the calf growing rapidly. Such a ration is more expensive.

In a climate where the cow herd must be on a dry feed for five months, a total of about 1,300 to 1,500 pounds of digestible feed is needed in winter.

A 1,100-pound pregnant beef cow can be carried through the winter quite cheaply when fed 1,100 pounds of clover hay, 1,500 pounds of corn stover and 500 pounds of oats straw.

THE LIFE AND WORKS OF JESUS

Jesus was born in a cattle shed,
He had no pillow on His head.
He had no clothes of pink or blue,
He had only the angels song so true.
I've had visits from the shepherd men,
Also one from the good wise men.

At birth He was told He'd be a king.
King Herod's jealousy then did sting.
He sent out an order big and bold,
Saying all boys should be killed under three years old.
Yes, His life was threatened there at birth,
He then went to Egypt, another part of the earth.

At twelve He went to the temple rare,
And answered many questions there.

He was who the priests were talking about,
Indeed he proved a wise little scout.
While a child He worked by his father's hand,
And grew in wisdom, statue and favor with man.

At the age of thirty ,He was baptized, too,
And then His Father's work he had to do.

He healed the sick and also the blind,
He left not a single one behind.
He told the sinners the road to heed,
And took no money for His deed.

He couldn't stay all time on earth,
This was said before His birth.
So, He died on a cross made from a tree,
So that from our sins we might be free.
Forgive them all He said at last,
And then from Him, His life did pass.

On the third day He rose from His grave,
And we all knew He was here to save.
And then to Heaven, He had to go,
And we were left on the earth below.
But if we obey Him and do His will,
We'll be with Him in Heaven still.

So, I to you a warning give,
On this earth a good life live.
Obey your parents everyday,
Follow, also, the Master's Way
Again I tell you, be real nice,
And you'll be with Him in Paradise.

NEW EPISCOPAL MINISTER HERE

Mr. John M. Gessell arrived in Appomattox Saturday, June 3, to assume his duties as minister in charge of St. Anne's Episcopal Mission Church for the summer months.

Mr. Gessell was born in St Paul, Minn., graduated from Yale University, New Haven, Conn., and received his Bachelor of Divinity degree in 1949 from the Yale Divinity School. During the summer of 1949 he served at Blackstone, Va., in charge of church activities at St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

Mr. Gessell is working for his Ph. D. degree in Theology at Yale Graduate School and will return there for his final year in September, 1950.

Accompanying Mr. Gessell to Appomattox for a brief visit, is Mr. Theodor Herkle, whose home is at Erlangen, Bavaria, Germany. Mr. Herkle spent the past year at Yale Divinity School on an Exchange Fellowship. During the last year of World War II, Mr. Herkle served with the German Navy, entering Divinity School after the war. He plans to return to Germany about the 15th of June.
